

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen,

i've read your announcement about an available ruby developer position on the job board website .

I would like to apply for that position for couple of reasons. One of them is that I like everything science related and the fact that you have an international team which is very exciting and encouraging.

I've done couple of web development projects after finishing a full-stack course I acquired multiple skills from html, css, sql, javascript to Ruby on Rails.

Being Agricultural engineer (formerly) give me a broad spectrum of knowledge when it come to science.

I speak English fluently and I speak German (have B2 level).
Additionally I speak Kurdish and Arabic natively.

I'm passionate about learning new stuff especially programming and giving knowledge back in an intellectually evolving environment and I think you have that.

You can find my CV in the attachments.

Best Regards

Rezan Mohammad
